Corns?

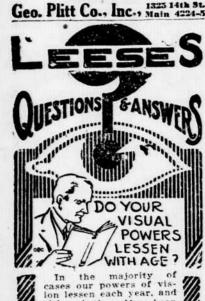

Blue-jay to your druggist Stops Pain Instantly

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in two forms—a colorless, clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in extra thin plasters. Use whichever form you prefer, plasters or the liquid—the action is the same, Safe, gentle. Made in a world-famed laboratory. Sold by all druggists.

Party Leaders in Quandary Over Selection of Senatorial Candidate.

WANT GOVERNOR TO ACT

W. C. Bruce, Robert E. Lee and Van Lear Black Mentioned for Consideration.

BALTIMORE, July 17.-The anti-France republicans having selected John W. Garrett as their candidate to enter the primary contest against Senator Joseph Irvin France, and Mr. Garrett having accepted and filed his papers, political interest is now centered on what candidate the democrats will line up behind.

So far neither of the two aspirants n the field, David J. Lewis of Allegany and William I. Norris of Baltimore city, has developed sufficient more city, has developed sufficient strength to cause the party to consider their candidacy seriously, and party leaders are now looking around for a Moses to lead them out of the wilderness.

Strong pressure, it is reported, is being brought to bear upon Gov. Ritchie to take the lead in calling a round-table conference of democratic leaders for the purpose of "drafting" a candidate who would receive the united support of the various factions of the party.

rudder. Senator Smith, many leaders think, is no longer in position to call such a conference nor to name a candidate. This is largely the result of the Wade case, which hurt the Smith faction and has caused something of a break in the counties.

On the other hand, the governor's position is stronger, and for that reason leaders friendly to both factions think it is now up to the governor to call a conference, attempt to bring harmony in the party and pick a can-opinion that the democratic state central committee should be called together and select the candidate. This plan has its origin in the Mahon-Kelly camp in Baltimore. It is regarded as being just as friendly toward Gov. Ritchie as the other suggestion but it would are bable is a gestion, but it would probably be op-posed by party leaders who just now are in a powerful position.

Think Governor Should Lead. The leaders who think the state central committee should act take the view that the governor's relations with State Senator William I. Norris, Furthermore, they point to his defeat at the hands of former Congressman David J. Lewis six years ago, and also to the fact that he is connected with that so-called "political graveyard," the public service commission.

The name of another state commission man has been prominently mentioned in connection with the senatorial race this week. This is Robert E. Lee, chairman of the state accident commission. A new boom comes for him, according to rumors, from Alleghany county, the home of Lewis. It is reported that there is a strong movement among the wet and liberal element of the party and also among McMullen men for him. Lee, it is said, is in a receptive mood and would not hesitate to enter the field if he was assured of sufficient backing from the party leaders.

More recently, however, other friends of his have intimated that he is not immune to senatorial ambitions and that the prospect of the nomination, properly presented, might not prove a wholly unattractive picture to him. Considerable significance is also attached to the fact that Mr. Black had as his guest on a yachting trip this week Gov. Ritchie, and that the governor admitted upon his return that politics had been discussed, but refused to give any further particulars.

In reply to a request of a committee representing the anti-France element of the party as to the attitude of the republican state committee in regard to the candidacy of John W. Garrett, Chairman Galen L. Tait has made it plain that the organization intends to maintain a strict neutrality in the primary, but will line up solidly betief

ENGLAND'S QUEEN MOTHER FINDS LIFE FULL OF ENJOYMENT

LONDON, June 19.—Queen Alexandra, the queen mother, now in her seventy-eighth year, is far more active than most women of her age. She might take life far easier than she does, but she evidently is opposed to the idea of being laid on the shelf.

posed to the idea of being laid on the shelf.

She likes to show herself among the people and she is, gratified by the applause with which her appearance always is greeted. Undoubtedly it acts as a sort of 'psychological tonic upon her and helps her to feel as young as she looks.

She crowds many activities into a day. One day recently she appeared in public at the cart horse parade for prizes in Regents Park; then at a concert in aid of workshops for disabled soldiers, and finally at the Richmond horse show. But she makes two concessions to advancing years. She seldom goes out of an evening and she goes to bed early, usually playing a game of "patience" before retiring.

Identification Positive. Final identification of the body as that of Miss Leman was made by John C. McKinney, jr., a Fairmont detective. McKinney arrived in Bal-rassing for him to call the conference.

On the other hand, the leaders who think that the governor should take such a step feel that he could do so without hurting Norris' feelings. They point out that all that would be necessary for him would be to call the conference of leaders and lay before them the situation without expressing any opinion, and then withdraw from any active participation.

Some of the leaders feel that he is really justified, on account of the position he occupies in the party, in taking an active part in the selecting of a candidate for the sake of the party. It is further pointed out in this camp that the central committee would probably do just about as the bosses say, and that the result would be a "boss-picked candidate."

Capt. John Carey at police head-quarters last night received a telephone message from a man who gave his name as J. B. Lazear, manager of the Ferbe Furniture Company of Mannington. W. Va. requesting that the body of Bella Leman be placed in a cheap casket and expressed c. of the furniture company.

When the senatorial pot first began to boil there were those who spoke of Mr. Black as the type of man who might fittingly become the partyls nomine for this important office. Impeccable financially, with a broad knowledge of men and affairs, he seemed in many respects almost the ideal candidate. But friends of Mr. Black said he did not want the nomination.

More recently, however, other friends of his have intimated that he is not immune to senatorial ambitions and that the prospect of the nomination, properly presented, might not prove a wholly unattractive picture to him. Considerable significance is also at the same time urging that the raw cotton be placed on the free list. The meeting of Mrs. Phillips and her accusers aboard the train just before it reached Los Angeles was staged carefully, but the sudden encounter failed to ruffle the equanimity of the woman charged with what police described as the most brutal murder in the city's history.

Mrs. Caffee, whose story of the slaying of Mrs. Meadows on an unfrequented road in the northeastern section of Los Angeles resulted in Mrs. Phillip's indictment, boarded the train at a station on the outskirts of the city in company with a detective and a deputy sheriff. She was taken to where Mrs. Phillips sat, in custody of the sheriff and Mrs. Traeger, a deputy, awaiting the end of her journey.

"Is this the woman with whom you went riding Wednesday?" Mrs. Caffee was asked as she faced the prisoner. "Yes," she faltered.
